Vivian Christiansen

When our talent scouts (agents) first told us that they had found a potential prospect, to be the star of our latest pictorial issue, working on her family's dairy farm in Jutland, we were, frankly, quite unbelieving. But our scepticism did not keep us from delving deeper into her background. And it was then that we learned that Vivian Christiansen, besides being equally adept in milking a cow as in churning a vat of butter, had also made some attempts at reaching Copenhagen with an eye on a potential modeling career.

We remained adamantly incredulous until the day we had the good fortune of meeting Vivian in person.

Her instant smile convinced us that our erstwhile doubts had been totally unfounded. We realized at first sight that the "Farmhand-Model" exuded a delightfully feminine personality – that she was a charmer par excellence – and that in times when the emancipation of the female has reached new heights and new dimensions, she can remain genuinely different, with all her female attributes.

Vivian was born on her parental farm in Jutland 22 years ago and, after finishing her schooling, had attempted to move to Copenhagen. Several disappointing experiences forced her to return to her life on the farm, until our scouts were "tipped off" as to her availability as a model.

Vivian says: "I like to be different. On my parents' farm I was not only interested in how a farm operates, but I wanted to be active in being a cog in the wheel of its operation." "And so I did menial chores on the farm."

"From time to time I would answer want ads for modeling jobs and when I was accepted, I commuted to Copenhagen, only to return again to the farm after completion of my modeling assignments."

"Frankly," says Vivian, "It became rather difficult to keep up with this dual activity."

"But at the end of a days' hard work, I would seek out a secluded spot on a beach or a lake in order to take a "swim-breather". If possible ... in the nude. A lonely beach or a barren shore of a lake are the very conception of nature and are always good company. And, when you don't have anything on - sun, water and the wind seem closer and somewhat healthier."

When we questioned Vivian as to how she would "unwind" after a busy day when the weather was not conducive to swimming, she said that a good book or listening to classical music would provide the necessary mood and atmosphere for relaxation.

But now Vivian is modeling on a full time basis and her career has been good to her. She is independently well-to-do. In fact, her contractual commitments are so numerous that she has turned down more offers than she was able to accept! She has purchased her own flat in Copenhagen. She has decorated it using her own imagination, inspired by her taste for things beautiful. But most of all, it reflects her own personality of simplistic charm.

Vivian is one of five children. She is 5'4" tall and her measurements are 38-24-36.

Like so many climate-conscious northern European and Scandinavian Girls, Vivian is the "outdoor" type. We have already alluded to her love for swimming, but she also likes to hike. She rides a bike with great enthusiasm and is an expert water skier. In fact, she excels in everything she ever undertakes because of her enthusiastic attitude toward life itself.

For quiet relaxation she says there is nothing nicer than a leisurely romantic walk with a date on a moonlit night.

Her desire for privacy does not go to the exclusion of social life. Big City life dazzles her as much as a quiet picnic (preferably tete-a-tete style) will do for her inner serenity.

She enjoys the company of men who will treat her as an equal intellectually ... but will be aware of and respect her femininity. Vivian has expressed a preference for tall men - (the silent type). But above all, she respects sincerity. "Time spent in the company of a man" says Vivian "is never time wasted, if he has stimulated me intellectually - in simple terms - if I have learned from him, then I am enriched. A man's mind and attitude will take precedence over his physical attributes."

"As for me" says Vivian "I feel most comfortable with people who like me not for my looks but for myself." "I base my appreciation of others on the same premise."

On the question of matrimony, Vivian gave us the distinct impression that she is not overly concerned with it - not for a while, at least.

Vivian has the right to look toward a bright future. But as far as we are concerned, the former farm-girl has already left her mark!
